Class Prophecy

About three weeks ago, October 11, 1968, when I was awakening from my operation I looked up at the nurse who was standing by my bed and for a moment I thought she was my old classmate Luckie Lee Wilkes. She looked so much like her. Immediately dropping back into semi-consciousness I began to recall my old classmates one by one. They all looked just as they did in our senior year of 1949.

Then the next person that came into my mind was Billy Aiken who was a very noted surgeon at Johns Hopkins. Janet Crosby was his nurse and a very pretty one at that.

I saw Charles Ambrose driving a fish truck. He was delivering fish to a Sims Store operated by Jack Taylor, whose specials were mullet and strawberry snuff.

One of my friends went to the air-port to catch a plane and who should be the hostess but Loree Anderson? One one of their trips they had seen Harold Rhoden, as the plane swooped down over Jekyll Island, driving a truck owned by Charles Rawls, owner of the Jekyll Construction Company.

Lola Brown was owner of the largest ten-cent store in Uvalde, specializing in Gold Fish.

Evelyn Cravey was teaching a darling little group of first-graders.

Charles Dent was a member of a large law firm in Texas. Louise Fields was his secretary. She was taking dictation from the boss's lap.

Johnnie Stanley was secretary to our congressman, Charles Turner.

Ann Howard was modeling "Mother Hubbards" for Sears-Roebuck.

Hugh Jones was a great politician. He was running for the office of Governor of Toombs County.

Elcise Night was instructor of Education at Duke University.

Sam McGillough was a well-known clergyman, while Nell Nixon was Society Editor for the Nashville Times.

Jane Bradbury and Helen Robertson were leaving on a mission to Cuba, having been appointed by the government on a Social Relations Committee.

Jack Simpson was settled on his quite, although famous, tourist home in Idaho.

Billie Jean Smith was queen of the Barnum and Bailey shows.

The well-known F. B. I. agent was none other than Holmes Tarver.

Ora Joyce Wood was the hair stylist for Lana Turner of MGM.

Sarah Bryant was selling tickets at the Fox Theatre in Atlanta, owned by Charles Clifton.

H. D. MacGlendon owned a drug store, famous for the most delicious banana split.

Christine Edenfield was an instructor at a Y. M. C. A. in Miami.

Peggy Partin was a nurse at Georgia Baptist Hospital in Atlanta.

The best pictures to see were in Lyons at the Pal Theatre where Milton Watson was manager.

Bobbie Wilson owned an excellent restaurant. Every one enjoyed her Wilson Specials."

The huge cotton plantation "Rest-a-While" in Mississippi was owned by Buck Nixon.

Fishermen came from far and near to buy home-grown worms at the worm farm of Marvin Phillips.

Jim Pye was the conductor of the Silver Meteor; therefore, when any of the classmates took trips they rode this train.

Smith Shuman was an excellent football coach in Raleigh, North Carolina.

After dreaming of these classmates, I began to see visions of my teachers, but suddenly I was awaked by a low voice saying, "How do you feel? You are through the operation fine and it is all over now." I opened my eyes and looked up into the face of the nurse that I felt I already knew.

CLASS SONG
(Tune: Maryland My Maryland)
Words by Janet Crosby

Up around the cedar trees,
To the scenes we've loved so well,
The time has come to turn the leaves,
To the chimes of golden bells.

Our hearts shall sing and joys will ring;
Above the noise of broken strings,
Fill brighter days have come again,
Where peace and smiles shall never end.

By some new glories will be seen,
And turn our hopes and joys to thee,
Now we shall say farewell dear friends,
For we shall ne'er return again.

CHORUS

Our dear school days have passed away,
Yes, they've gone forever more,
We'll take our place in life to come,
Turning toward the bright new shore.

CLASS POEM
(By Ora Joyce Wood)

We, the class of '49,
As we leave dear Lyons High,
Carry with us pleasant memories,
Of our school days now gone by.

Though unpleasant things have happened,
To the members--every one,
Since that first eventful fall,
We have had a lot of fun.

Some will go from here to college,
Seeking higher education,
Others, armed with high school learning,
Will begin their occupations.

It's so hard to leave our classmates,
That is all that I can say,
Everyone has grown quite dear,
Through our common trials each day.

We have labored through each morning,
Very often with despair,
But since now it's almost over,
We look back with reverent care.

So we say "Farewell, dear teachers,
And the rest of Lyons High,"
As our hearts are filled with sadness,
From the echoes of "goodbye."
